

Contents

Foreword	ix
Introduction	1
Part I	They Had the Presidential Seal 3
Part II	“To Those Who Served . . . and to Those Who Loved America so Much They Very Nearly Served” 43
Part III	“Some of My Best Friends Are . . . “ 73
Part IV	“I Don’t Belong to Any Organized Political Party. I Am a Democrat.” 119
Part V	Health, the Greatest Wealth, and America Has Enough Money to Be Richer 159
Part VI	They Are Women and They Roar—and Vote 177
Part VII	This Sporting Strife 189
Part VIII	Election Reflections 219
Part IX	Yes, Sir, That’s Our Bibi! Two-State Solution or Dissolution 229
Part X	When They Say It’s Not about the Guns . . . 243
Part XI	Fighting Flake News 263
Part XII	Remembering a Number of People Who Were Indeed Singular 277
Part XIII	A Tribute to the Capitol Schleps 295
Part XIV	Reality Has a Well-Known Liberal Bias 311
Part XV	Well, I Thought They Were All Pretty Good 327
Conclusion: Are These Emperors Clothed?	339
Index	341
About the Author	347